

Honor Memorial For WW II Dead Being Planned

Last week the move was started to collect the money for a memorial honoring the Randall County men who gave their lives in the service of their country during World War II. A total of 29 Randall County men paid the supreme price in this conflict and their names are the ones that will be on the Memorial Plaque.

Jack Jennings is one of the leaders of the group to raise the necessary money for the memorial. This is estimated to be $600 and to raise this amount the committee is asking that each veteran contribute at least $2.00. Jennings said some of the veterans had already contributed more than $2 each and that the additional money was certainly welcome. The Memorial is to be placed in the most conspicuous spot of the new park which Canyon is now constructing.

The Memorial is to be six feet tall and 12 feet across the base. The bronze plaque with the names on it will be set in the memorial slab. Dedication of the memorial is to be made at the same time the park is dedicated. This will be possible if the necessary funds, $600, is obtained by April 30.

The 29 names which will appear on the memorial plaque are Benjamin F. Beason, Rex H. Blankenship, Howard C. Brewster, Daniel A. Butler, Jimmie Carr, Charles O. Cheyne, Carl L. Drummond, Jack D. Farley, Forrest M. Faulkner, George Guest, Henry B. Hales, Jack Hand, Benito Hernandez, Fairy Hill, Robert K. Hunt, Albert Ross Hunter, Howard C. Hutchison, William E. Lockhart, Harold S. Lowe, Durward A. Meadows, Cecil McCoy, Doyle E. Neff, Carroll T. O'Donald, Lucius G. Penick, Aubrey J. Prichard, James C. Shepherd, Leon Oscar Smith, Jr., Wilbur P. Wofford, and James J. Wright.

Soil Board in Regular Session

Committee reports from the many planning committees were the order of business for the Board of Supervisors of the Randall Potter Soil Conservation Board of Supervisors. These reports were given at the regular meeting in Canyon on April 5, in the county courthouse.

Supervisors present were J. W. Spencer, C. V. Conatser, R. C. Sampson, Jr., and Marshall Rockwell, Jr., Supervisor Frank Begert was unable to attend. SCS technician Joe Batson, Vocational Agriculture teacher T. L. Devin, and Randall County Agricultural Agent John Brazil attended the board meeting.

The board voted to complete a memorandum of understanding with several other county, state and national organizations. These agreements are then used by the board in requesting assistance from the many agencies.

Tentative plans were made to help with the "Soils and Souls" program that is scheduled annually in May. On this Sunday the ministers of the county will be asked to use the theme for their sermon.

There are now 171 Soil Conservation Districts in Texas taking in 96.1% of the state. These districts were formed out of the desire and efforts of the local people without an overall organization and working force. The first district was organized under state law in Texas in 1940. By a simple majority vote a district can be dissolved, yet no district has been dissolved except for the purpose of adjusting boundaries.

Light Shower Falls On Friday Night

A shower fell in Canyon Friday night which measured .25 of an inch.

This was the second shower received this month, and may result in heavier rains during the coming days of April and May.

The dust has not been blowing as much as it was during the past weeks as the result of these light showers.

A cold north wind hit the Panhandle yesterday, bringing with it a light rain in Canyon. The moisture measured .15 of an inch.

The wind was high throughout the afternoon. Snow fell on the North Plains.

Dr. J. P. Cornette Recommends Survey on Health, Welfare

Dr. James P. Cornette of West Texas State represented the executive committee of eleven at the meeting held Monday night of 300 citizens who had been named to carry on the work of Health, Recreation and Welfare Services in Potter and Randall Counties.

Dr. Cornette recommended that $4,500 be paid for a survey which would include both counties. He reviewed the growth of Amarillo and predicted that before another census was taken that Amarillo and Canyon would be connected with a series of homes. The coming of the expressway will do this, according to his opinion.

The proposal had been presented to the Commissioners Court of Randall county, and was approved.

Serving on the citizens committee are P. H. Baber, Clarence Beckman, Dr. Cornette, Glenn Dowlen, Mrs. D. M. Foster, Mayor Hosea Foster, Arthur C. Haley, Jr., Mrs. E. D. Harrell, Rev. Dairy Judging Team Places 2nd At Plainview

Team members Donnie Hales, Jack Metcalf, Charles Conatser, and Jimmie Hales placed second in the entire 4-H division of the contest and first in this district. Teams from two extension districts were entered.

The Randall County team will represent extension district number one at the state contest and 4-H Round-Up at Texas A. & M. College in June. They will represent the 22 counties in this district because they have proven to be the best team.

Four banners and a model of an ideal cow were awarded the team for their efforts. Two of the boys, Donnie and Jimmie Hales, were awarded individual medals for being among the top scoring individuals in the contest.

The trophies and banners will be on display in the office of the Randall County Agent. These banners will be added to those Randall County judging teams have won in previous years. Randall County Agent John Brazil is the team coach and accompanied the team to Plainview.

The 46th Annual Convention of the Panhandle Press Association will be held at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo Friday and Saturday.

Car Owners Have Short Time For 1955 Inspection

April 15th will be the final date for car inspection for 1955.

After that date, if you drive a car without the annual inspection, you are liable for a fine.

It is reported that fines as much as $100 have been imposed upon car owners who have been driving cars without the 1954 inspection tag.

A number of inspection centers have been set in Canyon in order to take care of the rush which is expected during the final days for inspection.

It will be recalled that cars lined up in front of inspection stations last year. Too many car owners failed to have their cars inspected that automobile mechanics were swamped during the final days of the inspection period.

It is now too late for quick action, but owners of cars will save money and embarrassment by having their vehicles inspected now, before it is too late.

24 Men Take to Field on Taxes

Randall county's tax survey has resulted in 24 men starting to make a survey of the taxes of Randall county this week, measuring each and every house, barn, and outbuilding in the county.

Tax Assessor Bill Money is directing the crew which is working under the direction of the Commissioners Court.

All land, livestock and other taxable property will be included in the survey.

As soon as the work is completed, the Commissioners Court will set about setting a value on the improvements.

The revaluation of the property was brought about by citizens of North Randall county complaining that taxes were too high in the towns of Randall as compared with country property.

A survey was recently made in the Amarillo school district by a Dallas firm. The results of this survey was promised to Randall county several weeks ago, but the cards have not yet been sent.

Randall County Not in Emergency List of Counties

Randall county was not included in the list of emergency dust bowl counties of Texas when the final allotment of funds was made of the funds set up by the President.

It was announced that Randall county was eligible for this money, but since there had been little or no blowing in the county so far this year, the County Committee decided against asking for additional money for deep plowing.

Practically every county in the Panhandle was announced as being eligible for this money if and when it was requested by the local committee.

Polio Vaccine Approved After Year's Study

The news came yesterday morning that the Salk vaccine for polio has been found effective. The results of a year's study were made public by the University of Michigan's Dr. Thomas Francis. This means that the first and second grade children of all the schools in the United States will have the best protection known from polio this summer, provided their parents have requested it.

Mike Hyre, one of the Texas directors of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has told Dr. R. P. Jarrett, Randall County Health Officer, that the vaccine will be delivered here within a very short time. Dr. Jarrett said, "Everything is ready to go, and it will take only a few hours to give the shots to the children of the two grades in Canyon and Umbarger. The second shot will be given one week after the first, and the third will be given four weeks later."

"There has been wonderful cooperation on the part of school people, nurses, physicians and volunteers," said Mrs. T. V. Reeves, who is directing the program here. "Just this week, Fred Soil, dairy man south of Canyon, stated that he would like to furnish a treat for each little child when the vaccination has been made. So, there will be suckers waiting for the boys and girls at the last station in the room where inoculations will be given."

L. H. Brotherton and E. R. Reeves, principals of the elementary schools in Canyon, and Supt. Joe Gibson have worked out a plan to use the gymnasium of the Canyon Elementary School, and the library of the W. T. Elementary School as clinics for the vaccination program. A school room will be used at Umbarger, since the number of children there is not large.

"Parents will be notified when the shots will be given," said Supt. Gibson.

Cousins Hall to House Number of Girls at W. T.

New addition to Cousins Hall, dormitory for girls at West Texas State College, has become the showplace for the campus, and its rooms will be sought after when the fall semester opens in September. The addition has been completed, and many girls, not minding a mid-semester move, have occupied most of the rooms.

The two-story, double-wing structure is the first of two dormitory additions begun last summer to be completed. An addition to Stafford Hall for men, is nearing completion and will be ready for use next fall. Construction on a third addition, to Randall Hall for women, was begun last month.

All rooms in the new Cousins unit are of the same style, with matching walls, ceilings and floors, and are finished in colors ranging from blues, greens to beige. Each is furnished with two beds, study desks, end tables chairs and stools. Two large closets have sliding doors, dressers, row of drawers, luggage racks, shoe racks, and book shelves.

Baths, done throughout in glazed tile, have individual lockers and double rows of lavatories. Each wing has a utility room, furnished with automatic washers and dryers, irons and ironing boards, and cabinets for supplies.

A new office has been constructed where the old and new additions join, and a new speaker system has been installed, with three speakers for each floor and wing. Drapes will be hung throughout the building.

With the completion of the addition to Cousins and the larger addition to Randall Hall, more than 300 additional girls may be housed at WT. The remaining wings of Randall, which were finished just after World War II, house more than 100 girls, and "old" Cousins Hall accommodates 120.

College Singers in Vega at Program

John Butler directed "The Crucifixion" by Stainer Friday night at Vega. It was the first time that such a production had ever been attempted in so small a town in this area.

Thanks to the assistance of a number of college singers the production was well performed under the able direction of Mr. Butler, a student in West Texas State.

Rev. Jim Pickens, pastor of the Vega Methodist Church, had one of the leading parts in the cantata. Royal Brantley, Miss Kathleen Huber and Fawayne Murphy sang other solos. Assisting in the chorus were Dr. and Mrs. Houston Bright and Betty Ann Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Gazzaway and Mrs. Prentice Thompson and daughter of Fremont visited in the homes of G. L. Davis, Jack Barnard and R. V. Pennington during Easter.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

What About It? Are Editorials Worth All of the Efforts?

About 50% of the weekly newspapers of America never print an original editorial.

My wife was reading a book the other day in which it was stated that a few people ever read editorials. She asked why I went to all of the trouble necessary to fill this space week after week.

As a matter of record it is a habit, more than anything else, to write editorials. Before one issue of the paper is out we start to think of something to say in the next issue. This has been the habit of years. It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks, and here we have been in this game for many, many years.

Frankly, the publisher of The Canyon News has been highly complimented by too many readers to think about quitting this column. The editorial page has been called the most important feature of this paper for such a long time and by so many people that we have been led to believe that they are telling us their thoughts correctly, rather than merely kidding us into thinking that they have discovered something new.

At least, so long as the people of Randall county are willing to put up with us as their publisher, and are willing to read this page, certainly we shall try to give you something worthwhile, week after week.

Sir Winston Churchill Steps Down at the Age of 80 Years

Here we are called upon again to pay tribute to another great man who chose to step down and out before he was given the toe of the boot of the British. No one knew this better than Sir Winston Churchill. He has felt this too before, and knew that his time was coming again.

The only cause for jubilation may be traced to the fact that the grandfather of the Newsman decided to come to America as a young man rather than remain in England. Of course we might have been living in Warwick Castle had he not made this decision. And then again, it might have been in a hovel in London.

Sir Winston is the last remaining man of the big three who whipped Hitler.

The story that he tells, if he decides to put this story in print, will make good reading. The fact that the secret terms of the Yalta agreement were published without his consent is said to have made Churchill furious.

Sir Anthony Eden will now have his chance to run the affairs of England. He has been the right hand man of Churchill for such a long time that he must know the mind of the statesman.

Churchill's life has disproved popular fallacy: That whiskey and cigars hurt human beings. He probably snickered up his sleeve when he heard these charges. His 80 years of hard work disproves the theory; but the thing which so often kills men, has had little or no effect upon him.

Sir Winston Churchill is the smartest man in the world today, and the master orator. He has served his country well, regardless of how low his country may be held in the esteem of men throughout the world.

May his successor hold the balance of power in the world so well as has this distinguished leader!

The Canyon News Has Another Birthday—Enters 60th Year

The Canyon News today can throw out its chest and crow about having reached its 60th birthday!

Yes, sir, this newspaper is some grown up individual. That is, we are in comparison.

A few weeks ago three visitors from The Netherlands visited The Canyon News office. We gave them copies of the 50th Anniversary Edition which was published in 1939 by The News. We were informed by one of the visitors that their city recently celebrated a birthday of 750 years.

Time is a matter over which none of us may quibble. What is 700 years?

The Chinese said that they would whip Japan in a thousand years or so during World War II!

When August first rolls around, this publisher will have been engineer of this column since 1910, or 45 years ago. We shall start our 46th year as a citizen of Canyon and publisher of The Canyon News.

Growing Pains Bring Pains to Many More Towns and Cities

A visitor in Canyon recently looked around and remarked:

"What, no radio station?"

We recently heard the remark: "Thank God Canyon has not been pestered with a radio station." It all depends upon who will pay the expense.

Amarillo has five radio stations, and two television plants.

There are seven stations seeking your ears. To which one shall you listen? Certainly you cannot listen to all of them at once, or even more than one. The other six will be "claiming the world," as one radio operator in Amarillo summed it up. Since there is no one to check up and since the fellows who put in the money seldom ask their customers by which station they get results, this little fact remains a deep, dark secret.

Public Be Damned Attitude Is Killing Many Good Communities

When you see any agency which takes the attitude that the "public be damned" you will see an institution which is on its way out.

"Friendly" store or firm is often applied to places which show no friendship to any person.

We had a visitor in Canyon the other day who stressed this very point—friendliness in business.

Each person connected with any public institution in Canyon has a part in advancing friendliness. Those who fail to observe these rules will soon find themselves out of a job, and looking in vain for a place in which to land.

Friendliness pays. It pays not only the heads of firms, but likewise pays the lowest paid holder of any job connected with a firm.

Hard work, we hastily chronicle, is good for the average person—but there are too many below average.

Bank Robbery Has Developed Into a Big Business

Bank robbery has developed into a scientific business!

Bank robbers today are different from the "shoot 'em up" type, who value life so little. Not that the modern day robber would not as soon shoot a man or woman down to get their money, but the old timers were a little more practical.

Bank robbers today carefully case the job for weeks or months before they make their kill. The case in mind is the New York City job where each member of the bank's staff was carefully checked and carefully followed for six months.

The fellows who pulled the job knew the habits of each bank employee.

The same is true of the robber of other days, but the small banks were the victims then in comparison to the big banks of today.

FBI recognizes the threat and is holding a series of meetings over the nation to talk about preventive measures. These are the boys who know all of the tricks of the robbers, and know each and every robber by sight and by reputation. They never give up. While local peace officers have their hands full tracking down lesser crimes, the FBI boys stay on the job 24 hours per day, 365 days per year, and as long as necessary.

The fact that the government pays off the bank's losses have made the modern bank robber a little more inclined to take chances.

In Texas the fact that bankers offered $5,000 for each bank robber captured, dead or alive, may have had a good influence on stopping this menace.

Talk, Talk, Talk—Filibusters Are Demanding Rights to Talk

The Texas Senate has had two long and costly filibusters.

Each promoter of the filibuster is now engaged in a heated argument as to whom was the greatest and most enduring filibuster.

A trophy should be given to the winner—a pair of leather lungs.

And the Senate should take matters in its own hands and prohibit this senseless and insane means of killing time. The Senators who are engaged will probably never drop dead, as this would be too easy a way to pass out. If the same members of the upper or lower house should ever determine that they have had enough of such foolishness, they could put a stop to it.

The Senators like to refer to themselves as members of the Upper House; but while they permit long winded filibusters, they are distinctly members of the lower house—far lower than the member of the House in the other end of the capitol.

Canadian River Advocates vs. Missouri River Canal Project

The Canadian River dam has been advanced in the Texas Senate to make way for final passage—unless some distinguished (?) Senator takes a notion to stage a filibuster.

In the meanwhile there is more talk about building a canal from the Missouri River to the Panhandle for irrigation and household water.

It makes little difference which way the brass decides is the most feasible—a Canadian or Missouri—just so there is an ample supply of water.

However, judging from past observations, it looks to this humble servant of the people that the Missouri river offers a more substantial and permanent source of water; while the Canadian river project is needed for flood control.

Regardless of the outcome, there will always be objections on the part of some citizens to the projects. The balance of us don't give a whoop where the water comes from, just so it gets here and in ample supply when it is most needed.

Colonel Robert McCormick Was Once Panhandle Citizen

Colonel Robert McCormick is dead. He was publisher of the Chicago Tribune, self-announced the "World's Greatest Newspaper." At 74 years of age, he has lived a fast and furious life.

Colonel McCormick was a pioneer publisher who took a decided stand upon all questions, and once he had decided what was good for the nation, stood by his guns.

He was an uncompromising Republican. He fought President Eisenhower. He was an un-reformed nationalist, who thought that the British planned to take over the management of this nation. He was opposed to all foreign entanglement.

Folks of the Panhandle will wonder why Colonel McCormick had accepted an invitation to speak in Canyon at the annual session of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, until they realize that this section was the first love of the distinguished newspaper man. He had made his home here in early days, and was at heart a real Texan.

It Is Your Move Now, General MacArthur—In Russian Dispute

General MacArthur says that he opposed the move to get Russia in the fight against Japan, and had so notified President Roosevelt.

The Army says that there is evidence that General MacArthur supported such an idea, and was in favor of making concessions in order to induce the Reds to get into the fight.

So here we go on another chapter of the Yalta agreement. Did he or did he not—it will be the next move for MacArthur.

U. S. LIVESTOCK

The total value of livestock and poultry on farms in the nation in January was estimated at $11,381,356,000, compared with $11,904,859,000 in 1953 and with $14,848,900,000, two years before. Only two regions — the West North Central and the West — showed increases over a year earlier in cattle numbers, each with a three per cent upturn.

POWER OUTPUT

Power production in the nation has doubled in a little more than seven years and has quadrupled in about 15 years. Electric output reached 2,500,000,000 kilowatt hours for the first time in the second week of September, 1939, just after the start of World War II. Power output in the first week in February, 1955, reached a total of 10,000,000,000 kilowatt hours.

TOTAL DEBT

The total debt of the nation — the total of what is owed by the government, corporations and individuals — has risen 47 per cent since 1946, with corporate and personal debts leading the way. Total debt now exceeds $600,000,000,000.

'54 ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Accidents in the United States during 1954 killed 91,000 persons and injured 9,200,000. The estimated economic loss was nearly $10,000,000,000. Automobiles were responsible for 36,300 of the deaths—a reduction of five per cent from the 28,300 motor fatalities in 1953 and the lowest total since 1950. The all-time record high was 39,969 in 1941.

First Baptist Church Sanctuary Is Setting For Smith-Graham Rites

MR. AND MRS. RAY L. GRAHAM

At 6 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, April 9, Laura Lynn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smith, became the bride of Ray L. Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Graham of Hereford in the double ring services read by Rev. Strauss Atkinson in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church.

Soft satin drapery encased the altar railings. Basket arrangements of blue stock and white gladioli against a background of greenery highlighted by blue candles in branched candelabra made an enchanting setting for the impressive service.

Mrs. Ann Dawdy, organist, as a musical prelude played "London Derry Air," "Liebestraume," "Berceuse," "Clair de Lune," "Indian Love Call" and accompanied Miss Rachel Smith who sang "If I Could Tell You" and Miss Bettie Graham who sang "I Love Thee" and the Prayer Song, "Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us" in conclusion.

Mrs. Dawdy also played the traditional marches for the processional and recessional.

Miss Rachel Ann Smith, sister of the bride, served as maid-of-honor. Miss Peggy Graham, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical dress of lace and organdy fashioned with long torso bodices of lace and bouffant skirts of white organdy over double skirts of net and blue taffeta. Their crushed blue sashes were accented with bows in the back. They carried nosegays of blue majesty daisies.

A. D. Britt of Estelline was best man. Groomsmen were Jim Cornette of Canyon and Bob Norville of Canadian. Ushers were Duane Barrett of Canyon, Ronnie Smith of Amarillo, Winifred Russell of Estelline.

Ronnie Smith and Bob Norville lighted the candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white chantilly lace and organdy over taffeta. The fitted lace bodice, buttoned down the front with tiny buttons, was styled with Queen Ann collar and long pointed sleeves and was attached to the bouffant waltz length white organdy skirt over double skirts of net and pink taffeta by a peplum of lace which came into divided points in the center front and back. Her veil of scalloped illusion was attached to a starched lace coronet studded with seed pearls and sequins. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of pink Elsie roses.

Gowns of the bride and her attendants were fashioned by Mrs. T. D. McMinn of Clovis, New Mexico, aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a navy faille two-piece gown with blush pink accents. Mrs. Graham, mother of the groom, wore navy lace over mauve silk shantung. Both mothers wore corsages of feathered pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bridal party was honored with a reception at Baptist Student Center, West Texas State, where the reception rooms were beautifully decorated with blue stock white gladioli and growing green plants.

The bride's table was laid with a full skirted white organdy cloth over pink and centered with white stock and pink roses arranged before a background of lighted tapers. Appointments of the table were entirely of sterling.

Mrs. H. Strauss Atkinson served the cake, Miss Peggy Bonds presided at the silver punch bowl. Miss Janelda Cunningham registered the guests. Mrs. Billy Cunningham played musical numbers for a soft background for the occasion.

Others assisting in the house party were Mesdames J. B. Bray of Turkey, T. D. McMinn of Clovis, N. M., W. R. Sanderson of Plainview, aunts of the bride; A. M. Cunningham and Miss Frances Cunningham.

For a short wedding trip the bride's travel costume was a pale blue linen suit with black patent accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Graham is a sophomore at West Texas State and Mr. Graham is a junior there. Both plan to continue their studies toward degrees.

They are at home at 2104 First Avenue, Canyon.

At the close of the spring semester the couple will go on their real honeymoon trip which will take them into the northwestern section of the United States and on into points in Canada. Then they will return to a Forestry Station near St. Maries on Old Baldy in the St. Jo Mountains of Idaho where Mr. Graham will be in the Forestry Service for the summer.

Mrs. Loretta Crouch of Nevada, Iowa, who was enroute to a granddaughter's wedding at Phoenix, Arizona, stopped in Canyon last week to spend several days with a pal since early childhood, Mrs. Clyde McElroy. Mrs. McElroy was bridesmaid at Mrs. Crouch's wedding.

Palo Duro Mother-in-Law Club will meet with Mrs. Bill Money, 1504 Seventh Avenue, on Friday, April 15, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. M. D. Brown and Mrs. John Jennings will be co-hostesses with Mrs. Money.

"Village Smithy" Is True Scot

If the village blacksmith in Olney, Maryland, resembles the Scotsman on the Savings Bond poster above, it's more than just a coincidence. They're one and the same. When Artist Gib Crockett selected the thrift theme for his Savings Bond poster, he chose as his model 70-year-old Samuel Finneyrock, a true Scotsman who plies his trade in the little Maryland town just 18 miles north of the White House. A blacksmith who hasn't shod a horse in 16 years, Mr. Finneyrock nevertheless keeps busy at his forge making chimney initials and other ornaments for homeowners, repairing machinery, and otherwise serving as handyman for the neighborhood. One of the few old-time "village smithies" left in the United States, he observes: "No, I don't have a spreading chestnut tree to work under. A blight killed them all around here 40 years ago." Mr. Finneyrock not only has contributed his smiling countenance to the nation-wide promotion of Savings Bonds, but he also is a regular purchaser of what he calls his "good, safe investment." The poster is now being widely displayed all over the country.

Formosa Resolution Was Little Understood, Even by Congress

WASHINGTON: The strangest angle to the Formosa-Pescadores defense line question involves a counter question: Why didn't the United States decide what to do about island groups like the Tachens before the Reds attacked?

Here is the history on this question. When the Chinese mainland was overrun, and the Nationalists fled to Formosa there was some doubt about the course of action the United States would follow if and when the Communists tried to take the Nationalist-held island base.

When the Korean fighting broke out, President Truman ordered the Seventh Fleet to guard Formosa and the Pescadores against attack. This was essential in view of our military effort in Korea and made our policy concerning Formosa quite clear.

But no one ever seemed to be sure about our policy in all the outlying islands. Meanwhile, the Communists warned that the islands were China's and that the Reds would seize them. The Reds began their build-up of air power for that specific purpose and Russian ships began delivering high octane gasoline to Chinese ports opposite the Formosa area for that task.

At the same time the Nationalists continued to fortify every island they could, and the United States furnished most of the equipment. Still the question went unanswered—whether we would fight over a Red Chinese invasion of islands other than the Pescadores and Formosa.

The generally-accepted view was that we would not fight unless Formosa and Pescadores were invaded. Meanwhile, some of the country's military leaders said one thing and some another. The Nationalists, like several U. S. Army generals, and Nationalist-Chinese friends, wanted the U. S. to protect every island occupied by Chiang Kai-shek. Ike knew we could never do that.

Finally the Reds attacked the Tachens, a test move, perhaps, but possibly not. The islands first assaulted in the Tachens were 200 miles north of Formosa. The Reds have taken other islands in recent years but this was a bigger fight.

The question this posed to the U. S. Joint Chiefs and other key policy makers in Washington was whether we would help save much valuable equipment Chiang had scattered throughout the various outlying islands—or let it fall to the Reds. And if we were not to let the Reds get it, we would have to do more than defend Formosa and the Pescadores.

We would have to send the Seventh Fleet northward 200 miles, in close to the Chinese mainland, and under the noses of the newlywon Red Chinese islands, and evacuate the Reds' enemies. That might involve us in an incident since fighting was in progress there.

President Eisenhower knew this was something more than defending the main island bastion of the Nationalists, and the Pescadores, and he wanted to get Congress behind him before he got the country involved in a serious clash with Red China. So he proposed a resolution to Congress.

The irony is that when the matter was brought to congressional attention, the emphasis was placed on establishing a "firm line" of defense including Formosa and the Pescadores, but the real request was actually for an okay to send the Seventh Fleet northward and evacuate Chinese Nationalists and American-built equipment from a battle zone. There was the danger. The firm line we were supposed to have had, in front of Formosa and the Pescadores, since the Korean War.

Congressmen and Senators alike generally missed the point. The Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, however, didn't miss it. He blasted the Administration for indecisiveness over the past two years, and for coming to Congress to get belated guidance for a rudeness policy, arguing that some clear, firm policy concerning outlying islands should have been set long ago.

But most legislators praised the so-called firm line proposal. They said it would lessen tension, etc., whereas the military evacuation in a war zone (where there had certainly been indications the U. S. Fleet wouldn't go) actually increased chances of an incident. It was certainly the best policy to pull off the evacuation but it was also a belated decision, after much indecision, and a bold one—not a retrenchment, as so many lawmakers mistakenly thought.

When asked about the evacuation, the Seventh Fleet Commander, Admiral Alfred Price, said such a move would be "very bold" and "a change in national policy." Admiral Price was under no illusions about the gamble involved. And he was under no illusions that it was a retrenchment from our earlier announced policy. Note his word "change."

At stake were perhaps 100,000 regular and irregular Nationalist troops in all the outlying islands and what Washington military leaders called "a lot" of U. S. equipment. The idea was to keep these assets from falling into Red Chinese hands, and a bold evacuation by U. S. naval forces was warranted to accomplish this end. For Nationalist China, it was a retrenchment; for the United States, it was no such thing.

"I just don't know how I ever got along without my ELECTRIC CLOTHES DRYER!"

... says Mrs. Orval Wallace
1206 13th STREET
ABERNATHY, TEXAS

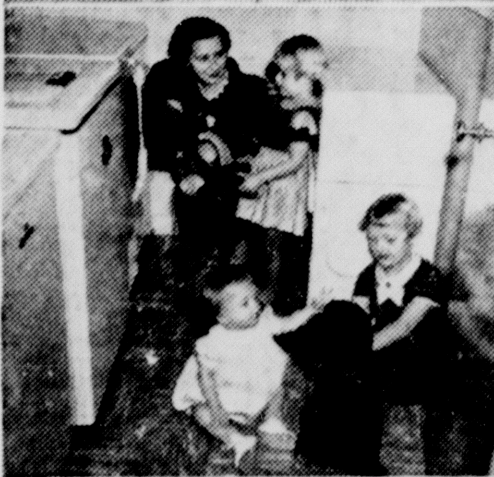

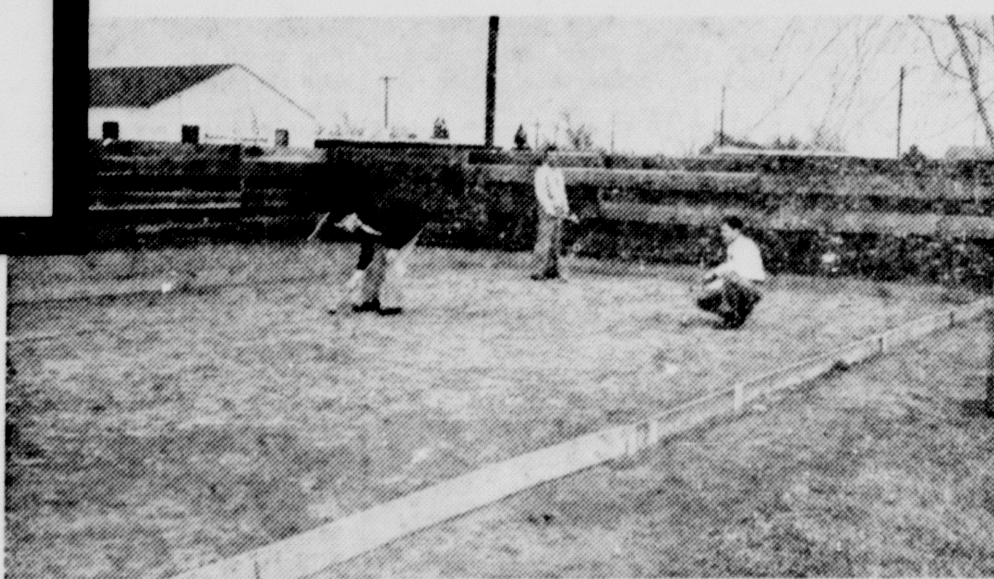

"The feature that I like best about the clothes dryer is that it eliminates tiresome trips to the clothesline forever. Why we have a croquet court in our backyard now in the place where the clothesline used to be."

Mrs. Wallace has a completely all-electric laundry, with washer, dryer, ironer and electric water heater.

"The 'problems' of washday are ended with an all-electric laundry. I used to run short of diapers for the baby when the weather was too bad for line drying. Now, I can wash and dry clothes for the children in less than an hour. Also, many of the garments need little or no ironing when they come out of the dryer."

Make your washing, drying, ironing — water heating, too — modern, make them electric.

"I like our electric water heater," Mrs. Wallace says, "because there is always plenty of hot water. It's wonderful, too, to know that electric water heaters are completely safe. There's no chance of a low burning pilot light going out, and my table top model gives me an extra work space for folding and stacking my clothes as I take them out of the dryer."

Double Ring Service Read For McAtee-Gayler Wedding Rites

MR. AND MRS. DAN GAYLER

Dora Jean McAtee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McAtee, became the bride of Garland Dan Gayler, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gayler of Tulsa, on Friday evening, April 1, at 7 o'clock.

Rev. T. Winston Wilbanks, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, read the double ring service in the Joseph A. Hill Chapel at an altar decorated with white majestic daisies, baskets of white stock and branched candelabra.

Mrs. Ann Dawdy played "Too Young," "Indian Love Call," "Tenderly," and accompanied Miss Debra McDonald who sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" as pre-nuptial prelude and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

Candlelighters were Mike McAtee, brother of the bride, and John Weldon Dye of Des Moines, Iowa, nephew of the groom.

Maid of honor, and only attendant to the bride, Miss Reva Clay, was gowned in blue net over taffeta ballerina length dress styled with a fitted strapless bodice and blue tulle stole. Her bouquet was a rosegay of white Dutch iris.

John Gayler of Tulsa, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Charles Dye and W. A. Doan, Jr., of Tulsa.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was a picture of loveliness in white net over taffeta. The ballerina length skirt was tiered lace ruffles and joined to a strapless bodice. Her fitted overjacket of lace had long pointed sleeves. A bandeau of orange blossoms and seed pearls held the fingertip tulle veil. She carried a white orchid on a pearl studded bride's Bible. Her only jewelry was a diamond lavalier belonging to Mrs. Willford Taylor, Jr.

Mrs. McAtee, mother of the bride, wore a navy and white dress of sheer nylon with a navy duster and white accessories. Mrs. W. B. Dye of Des Moines, Iowa, sister of the groom, with whom he had lived since the death of his parents when he was 12 years old, wore a navy blue shantung dress suit with white accessories.

Mrs. W. A. Doan, Jr., sister of the groom, registered the guests at the wedding.

Immediately after the ceremony relatives of the couple honored them by attending a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. C. N. Tippery and Mrs. James Brooks, aunts of the bride, presided at the serving table which was centered with white stock and white shag daisies.

Out-of-town guests E. M. Brooks, maternal grandfather of the bride, and Mrs. James Brooks of Hale Center, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Gayler

Mrs. Newton Harrell Writes of Trip

Shopping the Caribbean Way

Shopping in foreign places is always intriguing, even if it's only window shopping. Some shops carry things to interest tourists, while others encourage only local trade and do not speak English or accept American dollars.

In visiting eight different islands you find a variety of people living under different conditions and speaking different languages.

Some ports expected ships only occasionally, while others depended largely on tourist trade.

You find quantity of exquisite French glass beaded bags from $25 to $150. Also Belgian chalk white beaded bags. The Belgians do not have the fine workmanship or high quality linings that you find in the French bags, but they can serve for daytime and evening wear.

The English and Scotch woolen sweaters and stoles are good buys.

The Italians have a number of things in the markets such as blown glass jewelry, figurines, straw hats, shoes and bags.

Denmark shows its silver and cooking ware.

Holland has their blue delft handled steel sets to match their glazed earthenware blue delft made in Delft, Netherlands.

There are always the hand made linens. Exquisite lace cloths for $150. Not the loosely woven type. Fine, sheer, white orandy with colored or white embroidery, cut-work on linen or damask.

Perfumes, liquor and watches are always sold in large quantities.

There are always the East India shops carrying oriental rugs, brass, Indian velvet bags, woven with silver and gold thread, oriental shoes and jewelry.

The camera shops did a good business. They sold the German Leica as fast as they could get them, at a saving of at least $100 in duty. This shop was run by two men, one of East India descent and a Dutchman from Holland.

The man from Holland was about 40 years old. His wife had their eight year old boy in school in Holland. He was debating in his mind what he would do in event of war, as things seemed to hang in the balance as they do even now as far as we know. They all long to come to the U.S. sometime.

Two shops in Martinique had agreed to stay open to accommodate us, as it was Saturday and all stores close at noon. Of course, they probably gave our ship a commission for giving them our trade. We swarmed the place. It was hot and they only had half enough clerks. The women always do the buying while the men walk up and down the streets waiting and looking, and eventually wind up carrying the loot.

In Barbados a man kept following us pressuring us to come to a certain East Indian shop. It was Sunday and all the stores were closed, but we went in to see what they had. It was typically East India, but I found two baskets, one made in the islands, the other in Hong Kong.

Sometimes you have to be firm with the street salesmen to get them to leave you alone. They get a commission for bringing customers to the stores, while others have jewelry to sell and hang it on you insisting that you buy.

We shuttled back and forth bartering for the best bargains or the least crowded places. Diamond Lill, one character on our ship, said to the perfume saleslady, "You wouldn't believe it, but I have already bought six ounces of perfume," and she was buying about six ounces more. I don't believe she knew any more about what perfume to buy than I did. She asked for Chanel No. 5, but couldn't think of the name of it. It's the one most tourists buy, perhaps it's the only name they can remember or pronounce.

The way I chose my perfume was quite clever, I thought. I just watched and listened and looked at price lists. A nice looking woman near me asked for one-fourth ounce of something neat and attractively packaged, saying that it was the kind she preferred because it was not too heavy for summer and just suited for her. I asked for two of the one-fourth ounces at $3.50 each. I can't tell much difference between Chanel No. 5 and Harem from Cairo. The one I like best is Atter of Roses (oil of flowers) made in Caro, Egypt.

It's odd how you remember only the things you are interested in and can't recall the thousand and one things that fill the shops. It's also amazing what different shoppers find in each place. We were always saying to each other, "Where did you find that basket, piece of jewelry?" or "I wish I had known, I would have bought one."

You have a rather snug feeling when several people admire something you have picked up that they didn't find, at what you think was a bargain. Of course, it works both ways, because they come out in a few days with something bought in the same place that you would give your eye teeth for.

Dutch Curacao is the place of all places to shop. There are so many shops, such a variety to choose from. It is the last Port of call before sailing for Miami. You couldn't pass up these bargains in watches, cameras, jewelry, linens, liquor and perfumes. Some of the jewelry stores are as imposing as ours.

The bargains are where you find them. Often your tour director will say, "Wait, you'll get cheaper prices and better bargains later, but it depends upon what you are looking for. There is quantity and quality in one place, certain items you won't find again and you can't go back, this trip."

The ship carried a variety of clocks for sale, duty free. I don't know whether they sold any to the passengers. It was so much fun shopping ashore.

I paid the German boy, beauty operator on the ship, $4 to wash and set my hair and then had to roll it up that night. We had all heard about his poor work and would have done our own hair, but did not have any shampoo with us.

If you think that is high, wait until I get back to Miami. I went into one of the hotel beauty shops for a shampoo, hair cut and set, and it was $7.50 please.

But I can still top that. In Dallas a girl walked into a shop that had been recommended to her by a friend and asked for a certain young man to give her a hair cut, styling, shampoo and set. Before he got to her she looked up and saw his price lists on the wall and nearly fainted. She paid him $35 without a word and hated herself for the country girl she was for not asking the price before she went in the shop.

This beauty work may not come under shopping, but it all costs American dollars.

Pointe a Pitre of the Guadeloupe Islands, a French province, is one of the two island groups we visited. "Grande Tere" where sugar cane grows profusely and a variety of Brahman cattle are raised.

Pointe a Pitre looks like the old French quarters in New Orleans. It is definitely not a tourist town. With its narrow streets, balconies, and old absynthe houses. The many small shops, where each owner lives in the back or above, contains a very small store of cheap goods. The public market is a beehive of activity. Its throngs of people, mostly women, buying and selling the great variety of nice looking vegetables, fish and chickens. Women bring to market a hen in a basket or under their arms. Huge conch shells containing sea life are being opened, spread out on the cobblestones and sold for food.

Martinique (Fort DeFrance) of the French West Indies is a city of 65,000 people with very little tourist trade. It was discovered by Columbus in 1493 and Josephine, wife of Napoleon, was born here.

Their main crop is sugar cane. Saturday and Sunday are their favorite days for frivolity. All their shops closed Saturday at noon and the streets are deserted. The only places open were outdoor markets and two stores selling perfume. They remained open to take care of the tourist trade, and were well repaid in the sales made. Few shops carried any thing we wanted.

The people are tall and stately, subtle, graceful and healthy. Two dark, but beautiful, girls helped with the sales of perfume. The young men look like powerful athletes. The pretty little children were clean and healthy. Everyone seemed friendly and happy.

Fort DeFrance is a large town, encircling the Port, with many two story buildings, typically French are the overhanging balconies with much iron grill work and many tile floors.

There are many lovely homes. It is a tropical country and the homes have large verandas entirely surrounding the homes and a breeze way so they can get a sweep of air. Beautiful Bougainvillea, flame vine, hibiscus, and flowering trees surround the homes, line the streets and climb the fences.

Driving along the coast we saw fish nets hanging on poles to dry. Men were bringing in baskets, pans and buckets filled with small silver fish.

We saw several large freighters in the harbor.

From Fort DeFrance we traveled, in every kind of foreign car, 40 miles to St. Pierre. This little town of St. Pierre was wiped out in 1902 by the eruption of the volcano Mt. Pele which is nearby. The museum, as well as the town itself, is a mute reminder of the disaster that befell the town of 40,000 people. It appeared to be about half dug out and rebuilt. The crumbling walls and debris made it look like London after the bombing of World War II.

In the museum were pictures of the mushrooming clouds of steam and lava as they enveloped the city, covering everything, melting glasses, crushing dishes, welding boxes of nails and scissors together. One can imagine what damage such heat would do to everything in its path.

We crossed over the mountains on our way back, through a jungle of trees, ferns, breadfruit trees, mangoes, bananas, orchids and every known tropical growth.

Martinique has no outside mail service, except by air. An ordinary letter to the U.S. would take two or three months, going by way of France. Even so, it would be a lovely place to live, with every known vegetable and fruit to eat, chickens and fish. I saw only a few cattle, pigs and goats.

Bridgetown, the capital of the British island of Barbados, is a favorite vacation spot for the British. It is a beautiful island of sugar cane, flowers, lovely beaches, flying fish and friendly, English-speaking natives. There are 219,000 people living on 166,000 acres.

There are many shuttered, cool looking and colorful homes, also several lovely hotels. The British possessions always have good hotels and facilities for comfortable living.

Here we found a profusion of flowers, double, scarlet bougainvillea, and poinsettia were everywhere.

Bridgetown is a busy port. Vessels arrive from many ports of the world to discharge and load their cargoes in Carlisle Bay.

Barroecuda, dolphin, king fish, flying fish, red snapper and other varieties of seafood are caught in Barbados.

The flying fish fleet and sail boats come in each day between 1:30 and 2:30.

We missed Princess Margaret and her royal party by only a few hours, but the flags and bunting and her pictures were in many shop windows, and the fresh paint and clean streets were welcome sights. The royal party spent four days on the pretty little island paradise where hibiscus, double scarlet poinsettias and bougainvillea produced a riot of color.

We had a swim at the Crain Hotel beach. Steps are cut out of the stone cliff winding 100 feet down to this protected place where the breakers come rolling in. A great many English people make this their winter home enjoying golfing, horseback riding, swimming and sun bathing.

Port of Spain on Trinidad Island was called Holy Trinity by Columbus.

Trinidad Island has only 1,864 sq. mi., and a population of 660,000 people. There are 130,000 people in the Port of Spain alone.

Trinidad is only 10 degrees north of the equator, but has a moderate climate varying from 68 to 90 degrees.

Rainfall is heavy and seasonable, but the dry season is long, from January to May, and during this period the island is a tropical paradise.

The chief products of the island are sugar cane, copra, cocoa, and petroleum. Textiles and leading industries are time clocks, beer, glass, bitters, rum and local jewelry.

There are beautiful homes and fine public buildings, trolley buses, newspapers, clubs, parks, cinemas, street stop lights, and two radio stations.

Trinidad is a British colony, but in recent years has been given a large measure of self government. The Governor is elected for a period of five years.

The island is only a few miles from the mainland of South America and barges continually ply between the two, carrying copra, oil and other products.

We were called to lunch at 12:30. The place mats and flowers were very colorful and pleasant. We were given a menu at each table but no choice of food. The meal was served in courses; fish, salad with sweet butter and rolls, mutton and vegetables and a delicious fresh hot apple or apricot pie with whipped cream and coffee. I demitasse with half hot milk.

I bought two pretty white baskets at the hotel. It was Sunday and the shops were closed, so most of the time was spent touring the island and swimming.

We started our tour of Trinidad, Port of Spain, through the better residential part of the city. The double poinsettia hedges were hanging in huge splashes of color along the white walls bordering the many beautiful tropical homes. Many nationalities, Chinese, East Indian, African, Arabic and many others are fused into one English-speaking metropolis. There are the slums, but more through choice than chance, since there is cheap government housing available.

Across from the sprawling Red government house facing the square is the tourist shopping area, shops filled with East India rugs, brass and jewelry. These tourist and curio shops gave us something to do and also something to talk about.

The saddle back drive took us through the tropical jungle growth, past small orange, grapefruit, and lime groves, patches of cocoa, coffee and nutmeg.

We climbed 1500 feet in our English and American cars over a good hard surfaced road to have a beautiful view of the city and the many ships in the harbor.

In the evening most of the passengers gathered at the 400 Club, a large open air Country Club, to dance and hear a Calypso band.

The Calypso Band plays home made instruments made of oil drums. They cut off about four inches from the top of a can, then heat and bend the top in patterns, each dent gives out a different key as they beat upon them. Trinidad is the home or origin of the Calypso music. This is probably where the Mumbo originated.

At the 400 Club two native boys joined by a third and later by a whole troop of Mulatto natives danced wildly and frenziedly in a march followed by the band, as they do during their carnival time. The carnival was to begin in the following week and their Marde Graz must be a crazy, frenzied, mad house with so many bands and dancers each trying to outdo each other.

We finished the night at the dimly lighted Reno Club where many of the crew were dancing with pretty Mulatto girls. The Swiss and German crew danced well.

I picked up a lovely white beaded bag, made in Belgium and some pretty, little, cheap bracelets with Italian blown glass bangles.

Tomorrow we have a day of rest and sun bathing as we sail along the coast of South America toward Gauria and overland to Caracas.

Caracas, Venezuela, has a population of 800,000. Columbus reached the eastern coast of Venezuela on his third voyage in 1498 and thought it to be the mainland of China. The Spaniards held it for three centuries.

In 1810 the whites born in Venezuela deposed the Spanish Governor and under the leadership of Simon Bolivar won their independence in 1821. You see his statue and picture everywhere. Streets and public buildings bear his name. He is their Lincoln and bears a likeness to Lincoln.

Venezuela is the world's second largest producer of oil, which makes up 90% of the value of their total export. It also has rich deposits of iron, diamonds, bauxite, gold, and several other minerals. Owing to its vast coastline and geographical position it enjoys a privileged position in industry and trade.

Leaving the port of Gauria by car we traveled 60 miles an hour over the new four lane 80 million dollar highway, climbing about 3000 feet. The road is cut through towering green mountains. By means of air conditioning and well lighted tunnels, the road has such a gradual rise and such gentle curves that you hardly realize you are climbing. In 20 minutes you reach the suburbs of Caracas. The congestion of traffic begins immediately and grows worse until you are almost defeated by it. Ninety per cent of all cars are American, in fact everything seemed to come from America. There is brisk trade between us.

The new President has vowed to make Caracas one of the most modern, up-to-date cities of the Americas. During his two year term in office the city is shedding its slums, widening its streets. Building vast new residential sections. Huge construction projects are underway, two of which are the Bolivar Ave. and Center and the vast University City meeting place of the Tenth Conference of International Foreign Ministers in 1954.

The new buildings, mostly built of concrete, tile and marble are ultra modern in design.

The government house, the Senate Chambers and Officers Club are elegant and beautifully equipped for plush living.

University City is only partly completed. This grandiose project includes baseball and Olympic Stadium covered in half with concrete sun shades. These projects hold 45,000 and 35,000 spectators, respectively.

There is a Polyclinic Hospital and a student residence with enormous Administration buildings. All connected by wide concrete covered avenues, making the University one of the most imposing in South America.

The Officers Club, and there are many officers, is a small city in itself, with several dining rooms, bars, shops, elegant pools, cinema and living quarters for several hundred guests.

We had lunch in the open air veranda of the spacious Tamana Hotel on a high point overlooking the city. It is another Shamrock Hotel, only larger, more ultra, elegant and modern. The architect has made these places a dream world.

All these colossal projects are paid for by oil. The people pay no taxes, but living expenses are high. Companies get a concession on oil and pay the government one-half of all oil extracted.

Willemsted is the capital of Curacao which belongs to The Netherlands and is a busy port for refining oil from Venezuela. It is a fine harbor for ships from all over the world. There are many lovely shops where people spend a large quantity of money buying watches, jewelry, cameras, linens, perfumes and liquors which are all duty free up to a $500 limit.

Now we have three lazy days on board ship while we wind our way home through the windward passage to Miami.

Activities on board ship were much the same as you find on all cruise ships. McCabe, an Irishman and an old trooper of perhaps 40 years of age, full of wit and nonsense, recently from the Bahamas, was our tour director.

A typical program for the day when not in port is: Breakfast from 8:00-10:00. Mass in the Social Hall by Rev. Edward Belanger. 10:00, Deck sports, trapshooting. 11:00, Bouillon on the boat deck. Silverstar weight contest by Dr. Goetze-Claren, boat deck. 11:45, luncheon. 2:00 p. m., card games in the smoking room. 4:00 p. m., Lifeboat drill for passengers and crew. 4:15 p. m., tea musical in the Social Hall. Tea in the Smoking Room. 5:00, Horse Races on the boat deck. 5:45, Cocktail Hour in all three bars. Music in the Smoking Room. 6:15, dinner. 8:15, concert in the Social Hall. Artie Peyer and his soloists. 9:00, Bingo on the boat deck. 10:00, Baby milk fed contest on the boat deck. 11:00, Snacks in all bars. 11:15, Dancing will continue in the Grotto until 2 ? ?

We enjoyed the music, food, and good service on board.

Our charming waiters were a blond Swiss boy and a dark German lad. The American cruise ships can't compete or even operate under our union laws of high wages and short hours, with foreign ships. The waiters on this ship worked 16 hours a day for $32 a month, doing many other things besides waiting table. They depend largely on tips.

Artie Peyer and his orchestra of four contributed a great deal toward our entertainment. Mario sang, did Swiss yodeling and played the violin. Artie Peyer played the piano and accordion. Enco, a young, talented boy, played excellent piano and accordion. Charlie played bass violin. The tour director also entertained us with songs of many countries, some censored.

Being able to visit eight islands in the Caribbean and Caracas in South America was quite an interesting itinerary for only a 16 day cruise and we feel fortunate to have had the opportunity to take it with such a nice group under such good management.

Around the Town . .

If you're dissatisfied . . . Filled with unhappiness . . . Look to yourself . . . and not to others . . . In your own heart . . . You'll find your cure.

The Canyon Garden Club will hold its regular meeting Thursday, April 14, at 7 o'clock in the film room of the Library. George Cox will discuss dahlias; their culture, the best varieties, how and when best to plant. Everyone is invited to come.

It is against the law to open the car door of a parked car onto a busy street or highway. It's more trouble to use the right-hand door, but is far better than sudden death! This law is little known, but is one of the best laws. It is easily seen opening a car door onto a busy street or highway is dangerous. The law is not enforced in most smaller towns but is enforced in Amarillo and the person who opens a car door onto a busy street is responsible for any accident that occurs from the opening of their door.

I met Miss Mae Simmons on the street and she told me a few were having dinner together and began wondering why we eat ham at Easter time. None of them knew and they decided to have me find out. I have gone to every source I know of but so far am unable to find when and how the custom of eating ham at Easter started.

I called Miss Richardson and she didn't know; Darthula Walker, and she didn't know. Miss Richardson said that when she couldn't find out about anything she was searching for she called Mrs. Geraldine Green or Mr. and Mrs. Joe Findley. I called them and they didn't know. However, Mrs. Findley brought me a very interesting article about pigs and hams, the beliefs and superstitions about them in numerous countries. The one held by the Egyptians may have started the eating of ham on Easter.

"The Egyptians felt a strong ambivalence towards the pig. Their priests would not allow ham on their banquet tables and at the sight of a pig they would take to their heels. Swineherds were held in such ill repute that they were forbidden to enter holy temples and had to marry their own kind. On the other hand, the pig held the rank of a sacred animal and was sacrificed on feast days.

Furthermore, the men who participated in the sacrificial rites afterwards ate the flesh—an act forbidden at all other times by priestly edict."

These could be the start of eating ham on Easter: Miss Bertie May Williams at the college library found this for me: That in eating ham at Easter time we are unwittingly following an old practice of the Roman Catholics of England, who ate a gammon of bacon on Easter to show their contempt for the Jews, to whom pork is forbidden.

Then Friday evening Bob Izzard in his 6 o'clock broadcast said people in Amarillo had been wondering about the custom of eating ham on Easter and they found that in the old days people had much trouble in keeping meat and were often without it. Someone found that by burying hams in the sand where the ocean could wash over it that the salt deposited on it preserved it and they could dig it out of the sand in the spring and it had kept and was delicious.

I did find this about Easter that was interesting to me:

"Although Easter is a Christian festival, it embodies traditions of an ancient time antedating the rise of Christianity. The origin of its name is lost in the dim past; some scholars believe it probably is derived from Easte, Anglo-Saxon name of a Teutonic goddess of spring and fertility, to whom was dedicated Easte Monath, corresponding to April. Her festival was celebrated on the day of the vernal equinox, and traditions associated with the festival survive in the familiar Easter bunny, symbol of the fertile rabbit, and in the equally familiar colored Easter eggs originally painted with gay hues to represent the sunlight of spring."

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." —Galatians 6:7.

SOUTHWESTERN
BELL INSTALLS

TWO MILLIONTH TELEPHONE in TEXAS

SOUTHWESTERN BELL's two millionth telephone in Texas was placed in service early this month . . . just 77 years after the first telephone installation in the state.

This two millionth telephone is a far cry from the two telephones installed in 1878 connecting Col. A. H. Belo's office at the Galveston News with his nearby home.

Not quite eight years ago—in August, 1947—Southwestern Bell installed its one millionth telephone in Texas. Thus, we have added as many telephones in the past eight years as during the previous 69.

Yet, the big story is not in the number of telephones—but what the telephone means to the state and nation. As telephones are added, miles shrink and the range of the human voice overcomes time and distance.

Two million Southwestern Bell telephones in Texas form a bridge of understanding that strengthens the social and economic ties between all the people within and beyond the boundaries of the Lone Star State.

The growth of a telephone system within a state is a good indication of the state's progress and prosperity. For instance, in 1925

The two millionth Southwestern Bell telephone in Texas—installed in the office of the Governor in Austin, April, 1955.

TEXAS TELEPHONE MILESTONES

- 1878—First telephones connect Col. A. H. Belo's office in the Galveston News with his home.
- 1879—First telephone exchange in Texas opened in Galveston.
- 1883—First long distance telephone line connects Galveston and Houston.
- 1899—First lift-the-receiver switchboard installed in Dallas.
- 1927—Telephone calls to Europe possible for Texans.
- 1929—Ship-to-shore telephone service started.
- 1938—Southwestern Bell's 500,000th telephone installed.
- 1946—First telephones in moving vehicles.
- 1947—Southwestern Bell installs one millionth telephone in Houston home of Mr. and Mrs. Gunter W. Koetter.
- 1952—Operator long distance dialing introduced.
- 1955—Customer long distance dialing possible from Harlingen to 13 Valley cities.
- 1955—Two millionth Southwestern Bell telephone installed.

Southwestern Bell served Texans with $58 million in telephone property; by 1940 this had grown to $139 million; and by 1955, the company served Texans with $650 million in telephone plant. Because telephone growth is made possible by money invested by citizens in all walks of life, the two millionth Southwestern Bell telephone in Texas is a symbol of trust and confidence in the future of the state.

We are still growing and expanding with Texas—building more and better telephone equipment throughout the state . . . planning to meet the telephone needs of the future—whatever they may be.

Yes, we're proud of our two million telephones in Texas. But to a greater degree, we are grateful for the friendship of the people of Texas through the years.

Easter

This Easter looks back
Upon another day.
Then was eased a lack;
In a tomb, no one lay.

The tomb was opened up,
And he had gone away
Who gave the bread and cup.
This, on an Easter day.

That Easter Day is dead,
But on it life was born,
As rose a Holy Head,
Whose brow was crowned with thorn.

God's holy word to give
The martyrs died in pain.
Christ died that we might live,
That we are born again.

Man left this life in pain,
For other's sins to pay,
But God returned again
Upon that Holy Day.

God, Great God, had reigned
And in his reign we failed,
Until this Man we pained
And on the Cross we nailed.

We stand in life afraid;
We stand in death quite sure;
For this Holy One has paid
Our debts and made us pure.

He died that man might live;
But man deserves to die,
Not that God should give
His Son on earth to die.

Great Christ before us stands,
We cry to Him and pray
Christians with tear-wet hands
Their hearts before Him lay.

Mercy of all mercies,
The Christ our way will pave;
Glory of all glories,
Great God our souls will save.

For Our Benefit

What is the CCYC? By name it is known as the Canyon Christian Youth Council, but it is more than a name.

In 1951, a group of concerned youth banded together and organized the CCYC.

It's purpose? In the CCYC constitution it states: "The purpose of this council shall be to make Christian living a reality among the youth of our community by participating together in worship, work, study, and play."

To belong is simple. Numerous churches of the city are sponsors and their youth members are classified as members of the CCYC.

A lot of water has flowed under the bridge since the founding of the group. A lot of things have been done and a lot of things are yet to be completed or started.

In past years there has been youth rallies, CROP collections, assemblies, sunrise services to mention a few. Nonetheless, the CCYC has a widening future and a place to use everyone of us.

Did You Know That

In 1923, at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, eight of the most successful "money-makers" of our country met to discuss business.

Those present were the presidents of the largest utility company, the largest steel company, the most prominent gas company, the New York Stock Exchange, and the Bank of International Settlements; the greatest wheat speculator; a member of the President's Cabinet, and the greatest "bear" on Wall Street.

Thirty-two years later, let's see where these men are.

Charles Schwab — president of the largest utility — died bankrupt, living on borrowed money for five years before his death. Samuel Insull — president of the largest steel company — died a fugitive from justice in a foreign land.

Howard Hopson — president of the most prominent gas company — died insane.

Leon Fraser — president of the Bank of International Settlements — died a suicide.

Arthur Cutten — the great wheat speculator — died abroad insolvent.

Albert Fall — a member of the President's cabinet — was pardoned from prison so he could die at home.

Jesse Livermore — the greatest "bear" on Wall Street — died a suicide.

One thing cannot be denied. These men were the most successful financiers. Although these men learned how to make money, not one of them learned how to live.

Student of the Week

Jo Beth Warren, a pretty senior, was recently chosen as one of the candidates for Lions Club Sweetheart. While in high school, Jo Beth has been a member of FHA, choir, and the senior play cast. Next year Jo Beth plans to attend West Texas State College and major in business.

Billy McBroom, an active senior FFA member, is present chapter sentinel and has previously served as FFA historian. Billy assisted the Eagle's basketball and football teams as manager this past season, and was elected junior class sergeant-at-arms last year. To be a coach is Billy's chosen vocation.

Carolyn Measmer, a friendly blond senior, plans to attend Northwest Texas Nursing School in Amarillo next year, and begin nursing training. During her high school years, Carolyn has held membership in FHA, choir, and the Science Club. She lists swimming as her hobby.

Youth Present Sunrise Service

In the gray light and morning dew before dawn, a trumpet duet broke the silence to open the CCYC Easter sunrise service at the WTSC stadium. The program was directed and presented entirely by young people.

"Were You There?" the trumpet duet, was played by Bernye Woodward and Barbara Brown. Immediately following Barry Clark read a poem which he had written entitled "Easter."

As the main speaker was Dorothy Neblett, a Lindenwood College student, she told the story of Mary Magdalene, "Easter Will Always Dawn." Preceding Dorothy, Al Myers, CCYC president, read the scripture taken from Luke 24:44-53.

The CCYC choir, a double quartet, and soloist blended voices in worshipful hymns. The choir, under the direction of Marshall Jones, WT senior, sang "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" and accompanied Miss Bettie Jean Graham, Baylor student, in "Beneath the Cross of Jesus." The double quartet composed of Billene Childers, Wanda Rogers, Alice Simms, Dovie Keene, Ray Green, Don Wells, Ed Wells, and David Miller sang "O Sacred Head."

About 200 people attended the service. A light breakfast and fellowship were offered at the Methodist Church afterwards.

Old Tradition Dies; New Precedent Set

They did, but they don't any more—hang senior class pictures on the halls, that is. The 27 preceding senior classes have proudly hung their pictures in the halls, but now, convention and tradition give way to lack of room. Beginning with the class of 1955, future class pictures will be put in a wall rack.

Since the practice began in 1923, 1215 students have preserved not only their own likeness, but their mode of dress and hair styles so that future generations may be able to visualize at a glance the high school life of the "Roaring 20's" or the "dust bowl" days or even the depression days.

You can tell much of the history of the school by just glancing at the pictures on the wall. Anyone can tell at a glance that this year's class has the largest picture with 63 students, and the class of 1924 is the smallest with 24. On second glance you can easily tell that the average class has 43 bright shining faces.

You can also tell that the two classes in the 20's, with an average membership of 45, have it all over the classes in the '30's and '40's, both decades averaging 40 members. It is also easy to tell that the classes of the '50's have beat all previous decades with an average to date of 54 class members.

The moral of this little tale—Study hard before you fail, Or else you'll have a tale of woe, And off the wall your picture will go.

Human language can repeat only an infinitesimal part of what exists. —Mary Baker Eddy

WISE CRACKS

Canyon To Hold Choral Festival

Melodies will echo through the WT College auditorium as the combined Canyon School choirs lift their voices in the coming Choral Festival.

The high school third and fifth period choirs, the sixth grade and junior high choirs will enter the festival under the baton of Mr. Royal Brantley, Mrs. Hope Rusk, and Miss Ada V. Clark. The contest, beginning at 7:30, April 19, will feature choirs from the entire Panhandle area.

Big Dark Secret To Be Revealed

It is a big dark secret and the juniors are not telling. The seniors are curious, but their questions are to no avail. Everywhere the juniors are holding council or running down the hall on some mysterious errand.

Don't worry seniors, the mystery will soon be revealed. When the girls put on their new exquisite formal and the boys put on the dark suits and ties, there will be gaiety galore.

The big dark secret is one of the outstanding social highlights of the year. Saturday, April 16, is the big day for the event. It will begin at 6:30 p. m. in the CHS cafeteria and later in Cousins Hall, WTSC dormitory. The BIG DARK SECRET is the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom.

Orators Take Sewing Lessons; Discuss Topic of Drafting Women

"Do you have a button missing?" "It was a hit and run driver!" "I am against drafting women because..." "I nominate Peggy Seymour for President of the United States."

Eavesdroppers nosing around the speech class recently would have received an "ear-full" of statements such as those above. It seems the speech class has been engaged in making a series of different types of oratory. Each of the above statements is from a certain kind of speech.

"Do you have a button missing?" Peggy Sheets offered woeful afflictants a soothing remedy. "Sew it on." Furthermore, she showed everyone how to do it in her contribution to the how-to-do-it talks. Some of the other demonstrations to show the audience just how it is done were helpful hints on how to varnish a table, string beads, catch trout, how to play golf, and the fundamentals of tennis.

"It was a hit and run driver!" Avalon Brown gave sound statements toward the discouragement of hit and run drivers in the emotional type of speech. Topics developed to create feeling were patriotism, racial prejudice, injustices, alcohol problems, and juvenile delinquency.

There was plenty of hot and lively discussion in debates. Peggy Sheets and Nancy Adcock were in favor of statehood for Hawaii, but Rhea June Ford and Ina Jo Hughes were definitely against the legislative action. The advantages of a two platoon football system were pointed out by Ken Kuykendall and Billy Partridge; Joe Dickerson and Frank Kimbrough were thumbs down. In the unusual debate question of drafting women, Barry

Ford Selected Lion Sweetheart

Rhea June Ford was selected the Canyon Lions Club Sweetheart in a contest Tuesday, April 5. The contest highlighted the Lions Club Ladies Night in the CHS cafeteria.

Other contestants taking part in the event were Martha Jones, Jo Beth Warren, Martha Quillen, Betty Burrus, Alice Simms, and Ann Moore. The candidates were selected by out of town judges. Standards by which the girls were judged were: Beauty, poise, appearance, and personality.

Representing Canyon's Lions Club, Rhea June will travel to Lubbock April 24, to participate in the queen's contest at the Lions district convention. Rhea June, accompanied by an elder, will stay in one of the Texas Tech girls dormitories with expenses paid. Winner at the convention will receive a complete new wardrobe, a $50 sterling silver cup, and flowers.

Rhea June, an attractive senior, takes active part in FHA, Rainbows, basketball, volleyball, and tennis. Previously she has been Halloween Queen and twice elected cheerleader. Portraying Marcia in the senior play, "Strictly Formal," Rhea June helped make it a huge success.

After graduating from CHS, she plans to enter West Texas State College and major in business.

AUSTIN: Easter bunny brought the golden egg! That, in an egg-shell, describes developments in the Capitol City over the week-end.

House members returned to Austin from the Easter holiday to discover that members of the revenue and taxation committee who remained on the job, had brought out a compromise bill. It promised $45,000,000 in new money.

Chairman Stanton Stone and House Speaker Jim Lindsey regard it as their number one project for the week.

Although the committee side-tracked Gov. Allan Shivers' single-shot bills and adopted Chairman Stone's omnibus bill, Governor Shivers said it was a workable basis for providing what is needed.

Actually the bill gives Governor Shivers more than half of his announced desires. He praised the committee and asked that the balance of his "program" be restored somewhere along the way.

Approved by the committee was the one-cent per pack tax increase on cigarettes, asked by the governor. Also included was a one-cent per gallon gasoline tax, which was half what the governor suggested. An increase in beer operators license fees was injected into the bill as a concession to strong House sentiment to include beer in the new-money scheme. A fourth tax item was diesel fuel at 1.5 cents per gallon.

Under the proposed levies, $25,000,000 would be added to highway improvements annually, and $20,000,000 would go into the general fund.

House Speaker Jim Lindsey took a strong stand for the compromise plan. Governor Shivers complimented him for the progress made over the long week-end.

Waiting for nearly $60,000,000 in new money, before it can reach the governor, is the $1,500,000 biennial appropriation now in conference committee.

Governor Shivers regretfully left the scene of action. He went with Mrs. Shivers to Chicago where she will receive treatment for an ear ailment. She had a mastoid operation last year.

Before leaving Texas, the governor stated that he felt the current 120-day session, due to end May 10, might run two weeks beyond the four-month mark. Legislators, now drawing $25 per day, draw no pay after 120 days, unless a new session is called. Shivers has expressed his dislike for special sessions.

Charges Pile Up

Charges continued to mount against Bascom Giles, former commissioner of the general land office.

Latest were four felony theft charges placed against Giles by District Attorney Les Procter of Travis County. It brought the total charges to date to $1,065,688.

Also charged on four felony theft counts was J. Paul Little, Crystal City attorney.

Giles and Little were each accused separately of theft from the state in four veterans land transactions last year in Zavala County. The total amount involved was $377,344.

Byrd Cattle Company refunded $525,068 to the state on one land deal.

Meanwhile, a Travis County grand jury continued its investigation of veterans land deals.

Giles' trial in the first of the felony indictments against him, to be heard in San Antonio District Court, was postponed until May 23. His attorney told the court that Giles was too busy with new charges and new civil suits to go to trial.

Giles Is Defended

Stanley L. Fry, a Reeves County landowner, testified before the Senate investigating committee that Giles was a "hard trader for the state."

"Giles," said Fry, "argued and sweated over land prices just as hard as if it was his own personal money."

Sen. Jimmy Phillips, chairman of the committee, asked Fry: "Did you pay Giles anything, or any employee of the board?"

"Not a dime," was the witness' answer.

Land Program's Future

Despite a "no" vote by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, the veterans land program may be extended to veterans of World War II and Korea.

Other members of the land board — Governor Shivers and Land Commissioner J. Earl Rudder — voted to urge the legislature to offer the people a constitutional amendment on the question.

Shepperd said that while he favored the philosophy of veterans land benefits, he would withhold his approval of any new program until the legislature enacts "clear and strict regulations" as to its administration.

Meanwhile, veterans organizations were to decide whether to ask the program's continuation. A hearing is set for April 18 on Sen.

George Moffett's bill designed to add another $100,000,000 to the veterans land program, via a constitutional amendment.

SHORT SNORTS: Navigation was taken out of the Trinity River Authority bill by the House.

Unemployment compensation benefits will be increased from $20 to $25 under a bill passed by the Senate. A bill to permit the state to fix minimum prices on natural gas has failed so far to get House approval.

Water conservation groups won a round when the Senate decided to let the people vote on a $100,000,000 bond issue next September.

The House is debating a counter bond plan. Final action sent to the governor a bill to put "Section 1303-B" trust companies stocks under state securities control.

Also passed was one of the major corrective insurance bills dealing with fire and casualty companies.

Both houses have approved an increase in drivers' license fees to $2 (every two years), effective Sept. 1. It will permit the hiring of 200 additional highway patrolmen.

A bill to prohibit the carrying of pistols in automobiles was withdrawn after a swarm of protests by motorists. Pensions of $100 per month for teachers, after 10 years of service, are called for in a proposed constitutional amendment passed by the Senate.

Passed by both Houses and awaiting concurrence in amendments was a bill to ban objectionable comic books. The House has refused to consider a bill calling for removal from office of elected officials who refuse to give testimony when their agencies are being investigated.

I GIVE YOU
TEXAS
By BOYCE HOUSE

A. Conan Doyle created Sherlock Holmes and, after writing many stories on his fictional detective, decided he wanted to write about other subjects, so he "killed" Holmes. But so many protests came from readers that Doyle brought Holmes back to life.

In 1938, this "column" made its appearance and, for 17 years, never missed a week—probably close to half a million words of reminiscence, observation, bits of humor and philosophy, in short chit-chat and trivia in a world beset with wars (hot and cold), A-bombs and H-bombs.

Recently, I decided, in order to spend more time in writing books, to discontinue the column. The reaction has been surprising and (it must be confessed) gratifying. Readers have phoned, written, stopped me on the street to say they miss it. Even busy editors have taken time to express their regret.

If Sarah Bernhardt could make no less than six "farewell tours" of America and if Doyle could bring Sherlock Holmes back to life, there is precedent for reviving the column.

So here it is. Or, as George Gobel would put it, "There you are."

You will recall that when Tom Sawyer ran away from home, folks thought he had drowned. They couldn't find the body but decided to hold a funeral, anyway. Tom learned of this and hid himself in the loft of the church to attend his own funeral. The preacher's praise and his expression of how much the "deceased" was missed so touched Tom that, in the middle of the service, he came out of hiding.

I feel a good deal like Tom did—especially after Jake Smyth's most generous editorial in the Liberty Vindicator.

Anyhow, if you will keep on reading it, I'll keep on writing it. Like Hopalong Cassidy and the Lone Ranger, old Boyce rides again!

OLDEST ARAMAIC BIBLE

Washington—The oldest known copy of the New Testament, handwritten in the language which Christ and His disciples spoke will be placed on public exhibition in the Library of Congress on April 5.

The Testament, known as the Yonan Codex, has, for centuries, been in the keeping of the Malek Yonan family which came from the Middle East. The manuscript was acquired from Norman M. Yonan, a member of the family which preserved it over the centuries by the Aramaic Bible Foundation, a body specially organized to buy and make appropriate use of the Codex. No sale price has been announced.

CELEBRATES OWN DEATH

Cerignola, Italy — Gioacchino Universita, 77, fell from a wall he was building and fainted. A villager who saw him fall hurried to relatives with word he had died. They showed up with an undertaker and a coffin, but by then he had revived. When they took him home, however, and he saw his bedroom draped with black crepe and banked with flowers for mourning, he fainted again. It was after being revived a second time that he ordered wine and dinner for himself and his friends.

The famed Wannamaker store pipe organ which cost $200,000 in 1921, was sold at auction for $1200.

BEEF BRIEFS

Man's obligation to the land that feeds and clothes him will receive special attention over the Southwest and the nation on Sunday, May 15.

That day has been designated as Soil Stewardship Sunday and churches will mark the day with special observances.

The National Association of Soil Conservation Districts is cooperating with churches on a national scale in the program. In Texas, the 168 soil conservation districts are working with pastors to make the day a success.

More reports of damage in the Southwest from the European corn borer have been noted in recent years.

This insect is a real threat to the nation's corn crop.

A recent report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture revealed that nearly 192 million bushels of corn worth $261 million were destroyed last year. This was about 7 per cent of the total U. S. crop and double the loss of 1953.

The Texas Restaurant Association is cooperating with the Texas Beef Council in publicizing the prize winning beef recipes in the Council's recent contest for home economists. The recipes will be served by the participating restaurants, and folders detailing the same recipes for home use will be offered free.

If you are raising oats, you might think about holding them off the market at harvest time.

For the past five years oats have gone up toward the end of the year when prices are compared with harvest-time prices.

Farmers must consider, however, the cost of storage and handling to determine if holding would be worthwhile.

A close study of past markets is recommended by agricultural economists for farmers who might keep their grain for several months.

Texas cotton farmers can raise a grade of cotton for which there is a better market than the grades now being raised, a top fibre research expert says.

Dr. Earl Berkley, chairman of a cotton improvement committee of the Statewide Cotton Committee of Texas, says that the markets have dissipated for much of the cotton grown in the state but that farmers from the Rio Grande northward can grow cotton of longer staple lengths.

Cottons with a staple of an inch or longer are becoming shorter in supply and a continued good demand is seen, Dr. Berkley says.

Many ranchers have been considering reseeding of native pastures depleted by continued drought.

It may not be worthwhile, says Fred Walker, range expert with the Texas A & M Extension Service.

If 15 per cent or more of the desirable native grasses remain in the area, reseeding would not be profitable, he says.

Deferred grazing is a quicker and cheaper means of revegetation. Reseeding is usually not successful without some soil preparation.

Sign of progress: Thirty years ago a farmer produced enough for himself and seven other people.

Today he produces enough for himself and 12 others.

Chinese Reds Have Not Yet Taken Matsu---Big Four Probably to Meet

WASHINGTON: The days tick by and reports in Washington continue to indicate a Chinese Communist attack on the Matsu Islands in the near future. The reports could be wrong, but the Chinese have "come through" on past occasions when such reports, and their own announcements, heralded action.

As this is written, the great debate in Washington continues on U. S. Policy in the Formosa area. Canada clarified her position in the last few days by announcing she would not get involved in military operations over the offshore islands. Canada's position was that they belonged to the mainland Chinese government.

Both British and French leaders are increasing the pressure on President Eisenhower to announce a definite policy on the possibility of a defense of the islands by the United States. So far, U. S. policy is unclear, we might or we might not fight back if the Reds attack them. Secretary of State Dulles has said we would fight back if they are attacked as part of an assault against Formosa. But he has also said we were not committed to defend them.

As the days run out, and the attack on them impends, Senate Democrats are expressing dissatisfaction with the uncertainty of our foreign policy. And the nationalist wing of the Republican party is expressing dissatisfaction that we don't get tough over the islands.

This G.O.P. group is eager to fight over the islands which the British, French and Canadians think should go to Red China.

President Eisenhower finds himself squarely on the spot as the sands run lower and lower in the glass. By the time you read this, he might have spoken out in frank language. Meanwhile, the question of a Big Four conference has come rapidly to the fore.

Mr. Eisenhower thinks such a meeting might be a way to curb the increasing international tension building up in the Formosa Strait. But he doesn't have in mind including Red China in such a meeting. The Russians do, although Marshal Bulganin skirted that issue when he recently announced that Russia took a positive approach to Mr. Eisenhower's hints in favor of a Big Four meet.

Whether the brighter prospect of a Big Four meeting and its arrangement, will come in time to affect the developing crisis off China's coast is a good question. Ratification of the Paris Agreements by the French Senate helped prospects for such a meeting immeasurably, and Washington is now fast preparing to rush equipment and aid to a sovereign West Germany.

But the United States is standing almost alone in its position on the offshore islands. The Communists have long been striving to separate this country from its major allies

Let Kids Grow Plea Safety Man

"Bring 'em up, don't run 'em down!"

In these words, E. C. McFadden of Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Association, Inc., made a plea to Texas motorists to watch out for children in traffic. Mr. McFadden was speaking in connection with the child pedestrian and bicycle safety program being sponsored locally this month by the Texas Safety Association, the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council.

"Every year thousands of children are injured and killed in motor vehicle accidents," Mr. McFadden said. "To improve this tragic situation, every driver must keep alert for children."

According to National Safety Council statistics, 4,400 children under 15 were killed in traffic in 1953, and approximately 225,000 youngsters in this age group were injured, Mr. McFadden said.

"Of those who died," he said, "2,000 were killed in cities, and 2,400 were killed in rural areas."

Mr. McFadden also pointed out that in 1953 almost 2,000 of the youngsters who lost their lives in traffic were pedestrians.

"A total of about 82,000 child pedestrians were injured and killed that year," he said, "and most of these accidents occurred to children crossing streets between intersections, coming out streets from behind parked cars or playing in the roadway."

To avoid bringing harm to children in traffic, Mr. McFadden suggested that drivers follow four safety rules. The rules are:

1. Always expect the unexpected where children are concerned, remembering that children are unpredictable and that the motorist must think for them in traffic.
2. Give young bike riders every break.
3. Drive with extreme caution near schools and playgrounds and in residential areas — in fact, near any place where children may be expected to gather.
4. Be especially alert in school areas for signs, signals, traffic police, school patrols and for children themselves.

Normal Pullet Production Is Needed—Expert

COLLEGE STATION: Egg producers who sell on grade or above current prices are advised to go ahead this year with normal flock replacements.

Market conditions indicate that efficient producers should make pullet replacements at regular intervals. Chances for profits among these producers remain good, says F. Z. Beamblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist.

This was the same outlook of four months ago and recent developments further support Beamblossom's advice.

Laying flocks underwent stiff culling during the fall and winter, and fewer late hatched pullets were added to flocks.

There were nine percent fewer pullets on farms of laying age on February 1, and the number of January Texas-hatched chicks for farm flock replacement fell 22 per cent below a year ago.

This factor coupled with the reduced number of pullets available for layers along with heavy culling strengthens the outlook for the far-sighted producer, he says.

Egg production during January hit record levels in all areas excepting the South Central states, Texas included.

The specialist says spring egg surpluses are likely to "about parallel" those of last year, although somewhat smaller than first expected. Nevertheless, spring-time surpluses will be high compared with recent years.

BAN SOVIET PAPERS

Acting under a legal opinion from the Justice Department, Post Office Department officials have been confiscating and destroying copies of the Soviet publications Pravda and Izvestia, as part of a program designed to choke off the flow of the Communist propaganda into this country. Only those having "official status," such as Government agencies and educational and research institutions may now receive copies of these publications.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS
OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Dust Storms

The dust storms in the Southwest are again getting front page billing in the Eastern press. Some are carrying pictures showing a scene that appears to be taken at mid-night.

The caption under the picture is, "Mid-day in Pampa, Texas, Looking Down Main Street." This is somewhat misleading, because there isn't a Main Street in Pampa.

I sometimes wonder how so many mistakes are made.

One picture was taken in Amarillo and captioned, "Looking from the Herring to the Capitol in Amarillo." Now, this is the sort of thing that causes confusion.

People say to me: "I didn't know the Capitol of Texas was at Amarillo." Well, I then have to explain that the paper should have said, "Looking from the Herring Hotel to the Capitol Hotel." Then they say: "Well, it is true that a fellow named Thompson owns the Herring Hotel?" I say, "Now I have heard that, but I'm not sure about it." Then they say: "If his name is Thompson, why does he call it the Herring?"

I tell them to write General Thompson, he has the full answer to that.

The next question is: "Why isn't the Capitol at Amarillo?" I have to explain to them that Texas is so big that by the time our Chamber of Commerce had heard that they were considering choosing a capitol site and our delegation had gotten to the convention, they already had the building built and occupied.

The roads were pretty bad back then, but I don't mention that, just let size take care of it. They usually try to corner me by asking why we don't move it. I tell them that size has us stymied on that one, too, because we can't get an appropriation for that much.

Then comes the payoff question. One of the group always says: "By the way, do you all ever have any dust storms out there?" It just goes to show how much confusion can be caused by one little misleading picture.

Interesting Notes

I picked up a large city daily the other day, and on the front page was a picture of a person involved in a scandal. I opened the paper, and on page three was a picture of Winston Churchill and a write-up about his retirement. The thought struck me that the headline should have been: "Historic Figure Replaced on Page One by Cheap Scandal." How tragic. What is our yardstick of importance?

Watch for some interesting developments on the small business front. There is a gigantic struggle going on behind the scenes between forces of monopoly and independents. This could turn into the "Battle of the Century."

Just Between You, Me . . . and the Gatepost

By Lawrence Hunnicutt

A number of veterans here in Canyon are working on a Memorial for those men of Randall County who died in World War II. Contributions are being taken and Jack Jennings, one of the veterans working for the memorial, says he hopes all veterans will contribute at least $2.00 each. This is the amount being asked in letters which are being mailed or have already been mailed out. Jack was happy to report Saturday that some of the letters had already got results. Some contributions for as much as $5.00 and $10.00 had been made.

Levi Cole is taking the contributions and one of the contributors got his letter out of the mail box at the post office and went straight to the bank. At that time the bank wasn't open so the contributor proceeded to knock at the door until someone opened it and then made his contribution for the memorial. The Memorial will cost $600 and will be placed in the new park that Canyon is building. One of the finest ways to help prevent future wars is keeping the memory alive of those who died in past wars.

If you were out on the streets Saturday you probably noticed that spring time is definitely here. The air had been washed fresh and clean by a nice April shower the night before and attitude of the people on the streets gave the impression that spring fever had already set in. That nice relaxed attitude is one that goes so well with spring and summer and it's always a great experience to start it again after the coldness of winter. A lot of people were out of town on fishing trips Saturday so this week a lot of you are probably hearing about the big ones that got away.

Mrs. Clay Cooper said last week that the book drive for the Randall County Library was going over fine. All the contributions and books will not be counted until late this week or next week. Later in the day Chamber of Commerce manager Roland Black said he had several books to turn in that were contributed during the drive. When all of the books and money are counted, the Randall County Library should be much better equipped with books. The entire public can take credit for the achievement but the foremost person in leading the movement was Mrs. Clay Cooper. She is also the one who has contributed a great amount of her time to seeing that the drive was a success.

Passed by the Chevrolet house last week and noticed something new over there. W. H. McKee had grown a mustache which made him look like a movie version of a West Texas early settler. Come to think of it, McKee just might be the real McCoy, early settler that is.

What's happening on the TV front may be indicated by a trend now beginning back East. Charles Donnell said last week that records show that movie theaters are beginning to pick up in business back East. This makes it look as though the new of TV is wearing off and people are returning to their former first love in the field of recreation.

With spring time in the air and the young man's fancy lightly turning to what young girls have been thinking about all the year, we turn to that flavor of nonsense.

The fresh egg is the one that gets slapped in the pan.

Buy, Build, Live in Canyon!

Where will 8 more children sit?

Picture a class of 30 children in our schools today. Then try, if you can, to add eight more children to that classroom — and every classroom like it. That will give you a pretty good idea of what our schools will be facing in the next ten years.

In some communities, of course, the increase will be much greater than the national average. In others it may be less. But with the prospect of an overall national increase in the next ten years equal to the last ten, every community must continue to look ahead at least to 1965 in planning its elementary and secondary schools.

Only by estimating our local needs in advance and planning to meet them, will we be sure of providing our children with the best education at the least cost in the long run.

The national aspects of the crisis in our schools are so serious, the President has called for a White House Conference on Education, to be held later this year. Throughout the country, local communities are planning to hold their own conferences to study their own particular school needs. If you want to find out more about how to hold such a community conference, just mail the coupon below for the new free booklet on community conferences.

In cooperation with the National Citizens
Commission for the Public Schools.
